

Images of Iceland

Presented by Beth Lechleitner and Pete Graham

Fjords, puffins, volcanoes, glaciers, icebergs, foxes, rhubarb, midnight sun and guillemots

Pete Graham and Beth Lechleitner share their 26 day circumnavigation of Iceland, an island which seems to have more waterfalls than people! The journey begins in the popular Golden Circle near Reykjavík then progresses to more remote locales including the rugged coast of the Snaefellsnes peninsula, the desolate interior, and the Jökulsárgljúfur National Park's waterfall nirvana. Highlights include backpacking in the lonely and seldom-visited Hornstrandir in the northwest and hiking the wild glaciated volcanoes of the Vatnajökull National Park in the south. Beth and Pete suspect that this presentation will lead you to agree with them that a month is not enough time to fully explore this wonderful corner of the planet!
