

Weather Preparedness While Hiking in the Mountains

In this presentation, Dr. Joe Grim of the National Center for Atmospheric Research, will discuss how to prepare for, and identify, potential weather hazards while hiking in the mountains. Topics covered will include: 1) preparing for all possible types of weather, 2) locating the best sources for mountain weather forecasts before your hike, 3) identifying potential weather hazards during your hike, and 4) what to do if unfortunately you do get caught in adverse weather. Please bring your questions, and your own personal stories of encounters with mountain weather; this will be an interactive event.

DATE: Wednesday, May 27, 2015

TIME: Social time starts at 7 pm and the presentation starts at 7:30 pm

LOCATION: Fort Collins Senior Center, 1200 Raintree Drive, room 3

SPONSORING GROUP: Fort Collins Colorado Mountain Club

CONTACT: Bob Dietz, cmc.program.director@gmail.com

